Hospice of The Gorge Presentation

Learn how hospice care can help ease a person's transition at the end of life.

Gretchen Hagen, Executive Director of Hospice of The Gorge, will be speaking at our lunch gathering on Monday, May 19 in the dining room. Be sure to bring your questions!

Hospice of The Gorge is a team of health care professionals dedicated to caring for the end-of-life needs of people living in the Mid-Columbia region. Founded in 1981, it is the oldest and largest hospice in our region. It serves eight counties in Oregon and Washington, including: Hood River, Wasco, Sherman, Gilliam, Morrow, Wheeler, Skamania and Klickitat.

Hospice of The Gorge is a non-profit hospice, founded on the ideals of love and compassion. Its mission is to help people plan for life's final journey, and to provide the care and support needed as that journey takes place.

Hospice helps people live life to the fullest, and they help family members and caregivers learn how to cope.

They believe that no two people are the same. In their experience, depending on the individual, a good end can mean anything ... relief from physical pain, resolution of family issues, or closure related to spiritual matters. They care for each person according to their individual needs, with the respect, love and compassion they deserve as their life draws to a close.

Hospice of The Gorge has never denied care to an individual due to financial reasons. Medicare and other insurances, along with funds received from donations, grants and other resources are the primary means of support.

Their team of people includes physicians, registered nurses, social workers, chaplains, home health aides, homemakers, volunteers, administrative staff, massage therapists, physical and occupational therapists, and mental health specialists. They work with your primary physician and other health care providers to ensure the best end-of-life care possible.
